This Sunday we continue our Lenten Series- For Where Your Heart Is. We will reflect on questions of the heart as we look at the story of the rich young ruler found in Matthew 9: 16-30. Our body, mind, heart, and soul will be nourished as we come together for Communion. Looking forward to worshipping with you on Sunday via Zoom.

Dear fellow travelers

We are coming up on a year since we closed the church for the first time. It is hard to believe the virus could still be disrupting our lives. A part of me is grieving the loss of people I saw on a regular basis here at the church, those who I have not seen in our Zoom congregation and those we have lost from our community. In this season of reflection I am trying to listen for where God is calling us and I pray that He will hear our heart filled prayers .

Last night the reorganization group met. The group is looking at ways that we can engage more of our congregation in the life of the church while not overtaxing people. We are looking to engage people in their passions and to have them follow their hearts. This is a very slow process and we have engaged you before when we did our SWOT survey. We are looking at ways we can get your input. We have lots of questions about what life in the church will look like when we come back together. This group is meeting again on March 25 at 7 pm on Zoom.

Women's Fellowship met on Thursday as well. They will be wrapping up The Book of Joy at next Thursday morning before we start The Women of Easter. A separate link will be sent early next week.
